CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN MUNICIPALITIES AMALGAMATION BILL.

THE HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON presented the final Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the municipal affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta. He said:—In presenting this report, I owe it to the Committee to state that they have devoted much care and time to the consideration of the many suggestions with which they have been favoured by the several Associations and other Public Bodies who reported on the Bill. We wished we could have presented this report at an earlier period, in order that the public might have had a longer time to consider it before it must be taken up again by the Council. But the time which we have taken to give adequate consideration to all the material points laid before us has been such that, though we have made every speed consistent with due care, we have not been able to complete our work at an earlier date. As regards the report itself and the Bill which accompanies it, I may perhaps be permitted to let them speak for themselves. It will suffice to say that the main alterations we have made are connected with the system of levying the rates with the water-supply, and above all with the building regulations. I may observe that the whole of these come, if not in the latter part of the Bill, at least towards the middle of it, and therefore if the Bill is taken into consideration, say three weeks from the present time, it should not be inferred that only three weeks are therefore allowed for the consideration of the most important changes in the Bill. The earlier chapters of the Bill have been very little altered indeed, and substantially these have been before the public for the whole space of a year. Consequently, before we reach in Council those portions of the Bill in which material changes have been made, a considerably longer period will have elapsed. With these remarks I ask the Council to accept the Report.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON then moved that the Bill as further amended, with the final Report of the Select Committee thereon, be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

The HON. BABOO KALLY NATH MITTER moved that the words "for at least six weeks" be added to the motion.

The HON. THE PRESIDENT said:—The motion before the Council is to publish the Report of the Select Committee and the Amended Bill. No time is fixed. The Hon. Member can bring forward his proposal as a separate motion if he thinks fit.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON's motion was put and agreed to.

The HON. BABOO KALLY NATH MITTER then moved that the Bill be published for at least six weeks. He said the changes which have been made in the Bill are so numerous and so important that it is absolutely necessary that the public should be afforded a reasonable time to consider them before the Bill is taken into consideration by the Council, and I think six weeks is a reasonable time to give for the purpose. Anything short of that would be too little. Not having been furnished with a copy of the Bill as altered by the Select Committee, it is impossible for me to point out the various and numerous changes made in the Bill. Besides, as far as I am concerned, the Bill has now been presented in a form which is far more objectionable than what it was when last reported upon. Many of the alterations which have been made are such that I am entirely opposed to them, and knowing, as has been hinted, that the people of Calcutta intend to hold a public meeting to consider the provisions of the Bill, I think it is better that they should be afforded an opportunity of submitting their representations, so that, before the Bill is taken into consideration by the Committee, we should have the views of the public put before us in an intelligent and proper manner.

The HON. MR. MACAULAY said:—I submit it is quite unnecessary to give such a long period for the consideration of this Report and Bill. The Select Committee, sitting about twice a week, have taken only three months to consider and report upon the Bill in detail, yet the hon. member asks that one-half of that period may be given to enable the public to make up their minds on the Bill, and to submit their views in an intelligent and proper manner. I am far from underrating the value of intelligent public discussion; but I venture to think that opinions of any value can easily be laid before the Council within the period of three weeks for which, I understand, my hon. friend who is presiding proposes to adjourn the Council. I think that to give an interval of six weeks will be simply to suggest an increase of the delay which has already formed the subject of public criticism. We have nothing to gain by it, and it will only obstruct the course of legislation.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—My own view of this matter, as the Member in charge of the Bill, is that, if we had an unlimited time at our disposal, I should be glad if the six weeks which have been asked for could be given; but the function of a reasonable person is to balance considerations on opposite sides. What we have to consider is what will be the effect of giving six weeks' time before commencing to consider the first section of the Bill in Council. Six weeks will bring us to the end of April. We have not only to consider what time we should give the public, but also what would be reserved for the Council. Suppose the legislative session to be carried on even into July, we shall deprive ourselves of a very considerable portion of the time before us if we postpone all action for six weeks. Now, as I mentioned in my former remarks, the parts of the Bill which come first are precisely those parts which have been before the public for a whole year. I do not think any change of any importance at all comes before section 100 of the Bill. On a reference to the report of the Committee, I find that the first of the important changes comes in section 99. I cannot call the sections relating to petroleum an important change, though it may be an important question: the proposal has been before the public for a very long time. We have therefore before us some weeks of important discussions regarding the constitution of the Town Council and various other matters which have been untouched by the Committee; and during the time we discuss these matters, the public will have an opportunity of expressing an opinion on the important alterations in the Bill. So that, looking from both points of view, the time left to the Council, as well the convenience of the public, I am bound to say I think we shall consult the convenience of both parties if we allow a period of three weeks before commencing to discuss the Bill in Council. I feel pretty confident that we shall hardly reach the new portions of the Bill under six weeks. For these reasons I think it will be a pity if we wait for a longer time than three weeks before we begin to consider the Bill in Council.

The Hon. Baboo Kally Nath Mitter said:—I find that the first section of the Bill which has undergone considerable change is section 37—the very first section which will come up for discussion. The duties of the Corporation are enumerated in that section, and those duties were numbered in the Bill as before amended from Nos. 1 to 5, but now clauses (a) to (k) have been added to those duties. This of itself may not be of much concern, but under the very next section a power of control has been given to the Local Government in reference to the performance by the Commissioners of any of the duties enumerated in section 37. I am not prepared at present to say whether there are any other important changes in the early sections of the Bill; but it seems to me that this is hastening unduly the consideration of the measure. The Hon. Mr. Macaulay has complained of the delay which has taken place in Select Committee, but who was responsible for such delay? [The Hon. Mr. Macaulay:—"My hon friend is under a misapprehension. I made no complaint of delay, and I made no reference to any delay on the part of the Select Committee. I said that the Bill had already been for two years before the Council, and yet you want to give six weeks more for public critics to give their opinion upon it in what you describe as an intelligent and proper manner. I did not say that there had been any unnecessary delay, but I said that the delay which had taken place had been made the subject of public criticism."] The delay had been brought about by the important changes which had been suggested by the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill, and therefore, as far as the Committee is concerned, they were not responsible for the delay. I do not see why the public should not have a reasonable time to consider the important alterations made in the Bill which affect their interest.

The HON. THE PRESIDENT said:—Before putting the motion, I should like to say a few words on the subject. This Council would as a matter of course on all occasions regard public convenience; but the question is whether convenience in respect of other matters should not also be taken into consideration. The question is whether the proposal is a reasonable one. Now, when we come to consider the fact pointed out by the Hon. Mr. Macaulay that the task of preparing this report has taken three months, I apprehend the request to have six weeks time to consider the work which has been done by the Committee in three months seems relatively a long period of time. Nor can I believe the public to be altogether ignorant of the main provisions of the Bill. From my own experience I have found that when any important subjects are made public we have within a week in the public prints criticisms of every description. I cannot therefore help thinking six weeks an unreasonable time to ask, and I have no doubt that two or three weeks will be more than sufficient, especially when it is remembered, as observed by the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill, that many portions of it are taken from the old Bill with some amendments, but containing no new principle. All these portions of the Bill may be considered in Council while the public are discussing the effect of the radical changes which have been made, and there will be ample time for the public to submit all their representations to the Council. Bearing in mind that the Bill has been before the public for a long time, I am opposed to the extension of time for the publication of the Bill to six weeks.

The HON. BABOO KALLY NATH MITTER'S motion was then put and negatived.

The Council was adjourned for three weeks.

As it does not appear that instances of munificence like this should be shown in the body of the return, they have been noted separately.

CALCUTTA, the 13th March 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 9TH MARCH 1888.

At the beginning of the present week conditions were those which generally accompany the commencement of the hot season in Bengal. Westerly winds prevailed over a large part of the province, temperature and pressure were high, while humidity was low; skies were clear and rainfall was entirely absent. Wind directions gradually became more southerly at the southern stations during the earlier part of the week, bringing up moderate amounts of moisture; but still the general conditions remained unaltered up till the 7th, when a slight but distinct low pressure area was formed over West Bengal. On the 8th the feeble barometric depression was well marked over Bengal, and in the wind directions of Northern India, a general indraught was noticed towards the depression, while on the 9th there was a distinct tendency to a cyclonic circulation of winds over Bengal. The formation of this depression caused weather over South-West, East and North Bengal, and Orissa to become disturbed, and on the 9th, or in some cases on the last two days of the week, local showers became numerous, the showers being heaviest in South-West Bengal. With the exception therefore of the last two days of the week, when the slight disturbance commenced, the weather in Bengal has been of ordinary hot season character, and calls for no particular remark.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the earlier part of the week were very small; for the first two days a rise of two or three hundredths of an inch took place, which was followed by a slight fall on the 5th of almost equal amount. A feeble increase then took place on the 6th, and in some places on the 7th as well; but on the 8th a rapid fall of the barometer took place attending the development of the depression, which amounted at some stations to about a tenth of an inch. A further fall of about a twentieth of an inch also took place on the 9th, thus slightly intensifying the feeble depression. For the whole week, taking into consideration only those stations which have recorded observations for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the mean pressure of the province is only 0·005 inch above the normal.

Temperature—Has on the whole steadily risen throughout the week, and some decidedly high temperatures were recorded towards its close. The average mean temperature of the whole province for the week ending 2nd March was 72·9°, while the average mean temperature for the whole of Bengal for the present week has been 76·1°; there has therefore been an increase in the mean temperature equal to 3·2° during the week; the mean temperature of the province for this period has, however, been 1·2° in excess of the normal, but the excess is to a great extent confined to Chutia Nagpur, North Bengal and Behar, where in the last-named district the excess varies from 2° to 3°.

The actual temperatures recorded, and their variation from the normal, are best seen from the figures given in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day or maximum temperatures at these stations show an excess of no less than 2·9°, while the minimum or night temperatures show an excess of only 0·9°.

Rainfall—Was confined to the last day or two of the week, and then usually accompanied local storms. The average rainfall has, however, been small, and in South-West and East Bengal, where the largest amounts fell, it has only equalled 0·20 inch. In Orissa and North Bengal the falls have only equalled 0·07 inch. Elsewhere rainfall has been practically absent.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 9th of March 1888:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h. 10h. 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Ages," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during month ended 28th January 1888.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was an increase in the weight of upward traffic attended with a decrease in the earnings; the downward traffic showed increases both in weight and earnings. The increase in the upward traffic was due to despatches for Foreign Railways, and that in the downward despatches is attributable to the same cause as mentioned in the remarks for December last.

Jute, raw.—Due to despatches from the Eastern Bengal State Railway vid the Jubilee Bridge.

Other grains.—Gram and Pulses.—As in December, the increases in these staples were due to scarcity in the North-West Provinces.

Minerals.—This increase was principally in lime from Ranegunge, Jukehi and Katni.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—There was a decrease in the weight carried attended with an increase in the earnings; the former was due to decreased despatches to Howrah for export, and the latter to long lead traffic carried up-country.

Oil.—Due principally to despatches of kerosine oil from Howrah.

Seeds.—The increase was principally in linseed to Howrah for export.

Spices.—The increase was chiefly in chillies from Mokumph and Mokameh ghât to Howrah.

DECREASES.

Cotton.—Due to the traffic being diverted to Bombay owing to prices being higher there than in Calcutta.

Piece-goods, European.—This decrease was in long distance traffic from Howrah to stations in the North-West and the Punjab owing to the scarcity prevailing in those provinces.

Indigo.—Due to the dye having been carried earlier this season than last.

Turmeric.—This is a recurrence of the decrease shown in December last, and was entirely in the despatches from Howrah owing to a poor demand.

Gunny.—Due to a lull in the market after the heavy despatches in December last.

Other fibres, raw.—This was principally in hemp, for which the Calcutta market this year has been unfavourable.

Wheat.—Due to want of stocks.

Brass and copper. The decrease under this head is attributed to a rise in the price.

Opium.—Due to Government arrangements for despatch.

Railway material, Foreign.—Due to a decrease in the long distance despatches from Howrah, Sugar, refined and unrefined.—The long distance traffic from stations in the Dinapore district was poor.

Salt.—The decrease was nominal.

Tobacco.—Due to ordinary fluctuation of trade; the decrease was principally in despatches from Patna ghât and the Tirhoot State Railway.

NUDDEA RIVERS.

No. 112.—Notification.—The following Resolution and Notification, having reference to the abovenamed navigable rivers which are under the provisions of the Canals Act (V of 1864, B. L. C.), are published:—

READ—

Letter from the Board of Revenue reporting on certain points connected with the administration of the Nuddea Rivers, and suggesting that the Public Works Department should, in order to avoid divided control and responsibility, take over their working and management.

Letter from the Board of Revenue stating, in reply to an enquiry with reference to their previous proposal, that the Board see no objection to the transfer of the administration to the Public Works Department being made from 1st April next.

RESOLUTION.

On a full consideration of all the facts and circumstances that have been brought to notice from time to time, and of all that has been urged by the Board, and after consulting the Revenue Department, the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that the present system of revenue administration under the direction of the Board of Revenue and Civil Officers, coupled as it is with the necessity for audit of accounts under rules obtaining in the Public Works Department, is a source of friction inseparable from a system of dual control and opposed to the best interests of the management. His Honour is therefore of opinion that the management of these rivers should be placed under the control and management of the Public Works Department, subject to the orders of Government in the Irrigation Department of Public Works. Accordingly the following notification is issued.

All points of detail connected with this transfer of management will be settled departmentally.

NOTIFICATION.

IT is hereby notified for general information that, from the 1st April next, the management of the Nuddea Rivers will vest in the Public Works Department, and that the regulation of the traffic and collection of tolls will be carried out according to the rules in force from time to time under the orders of the Executive Engineer of the Nuddea Rivers Division, subject to the control of the Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle. The power to collect tolls on these rivers under section VIII of the Canals Act (V of 1864, B.L.C.) which is exercised by the Collectors of the Moorshedabad and Nuddea districts will, from the 1st of April next, be exercised by the Executive Engineer, Nuddea Rivers Division.

The Inventions and Designs Act, 1888.

(Part I.—Inventions.—Sections 5-9.)

Application for leave to file specification.

5. (1) The inventor of a new manufacture, whether he is a British subject or not, may apply to the Governor General in Council for leave to file a specification thereof.

(2) The application must be in writing signed by the applicant and in the form or to the effect of the second schedule if the inventor has not obtained a patent in the United Kingdom, and in the form or to the effect of the third schedule if he has obtained a patent in the United Kingdom.

(3) It must state the name, occupation and address of the applicant, and, where a patent has been obtained in the United Kingdom, the date of the patent and the date of the actual sealing thereof, and must describe with reasonable precision and detail the nature of the invention, and of the particular novelty whereof it consists, and be supplemented by such further particulars relating to the invention, and by such drawings or photographs illustrative thereof, as the Governor General in Council may see fit to require from the applicant.

(4) If in any case it appears to the Governor General in Council that an application ought to be further supplemented by a model of anything alleged to constitute an invention, he may require the applicant to furnish such a model neatly and substantially made of durable material and of dimensions not exceeding those, if any, specified in the requisition therefor.

Order to file specification.

6. (1) Upon an application under the last foregoing section the Governor General in Council may, after such inquiry as he thinks fit, make an order authorising the applicant to file a specification of the invention.

(2) Before making an order under sub-section (1), the Governor General in Council may direct that the application be referred for inquiry and report to any person whom he thinks fit.

(3) When such enquiry and report are made by a person who is not in the service of the Government, there shall be payable to that person by the applicant such fee as the Governor General in Council, after considering the report, may determine.

(4) When an application is to be referred to such a person, the applicant shall deposit, in such place and within such time as the Governor General in Council may by rule or otherwise prescribe, such sum as will, in the opinion of the Secretary, be sufficient to defray any fee which is likely to be determined under sub-section (3).

(5) If the sum is not deposited in the place and within the time prescribed, the application may be rejected.

(6) If the fee as determined by the Governor General in Council exceeds the sum so deposited, an order shall not be made under sub-section (1) until the applicant has paid the balance of the fee.

(7) If the sum deposited exceeds the fee so determined, the excess shall be refunded to the applicant.

Applications in respect of contemporaneous inventions.

7. (1) If two or more inventors apply on the same day for leave to file specifications of inventions which appear to the Governor General in Council to be identical or so similar as to be practically identical, the Governor General in Council may, in his discretion, authorise both or all the applicants, subject to the other provisions of this Part, to file specifications of their respective inventions.

(2) If they apply on different days for leave to file specifications of such inventions as aforesaid, the applicant who applied on the first of the different days shall be deemed to have a preferential claim to an order authorising the filing of his specification.

Acquisition and continuance of exclusive privilege.

8. (1) If within six months from the date of an order under section 6, sub-section (1), or within such further time, not exceeding three months, as the Governor General in Council, in his discretion, may, on cause shown to his satisfaction and on payment of the fee prescribed in that behalf in the fourth schedule, see fit to allow, the applicant causes a specification of his invention to be filed in manner by this Part required, and the fee prescribed in the fourth schedule in respect of the filing of the specification to be paid, the applicant shall, subject to the other provisions of this Part, be entitled to the exclusive privilege of making, selling and using the invention in British India, and of authorising others so to do, for a term of fourteen years from the date of the filing of the specification.

(2) But an exclusive privilege in respect of an invention of a new manufacture shall, notwithstanding anything in sub-section (1), cease if the inventor fails to pay, within the time limited in that behalf by the fourth schedule, any fee prescribed in that schedule in respect of the continuance of the privilege.

(3) If, nevertheless, in any case, by accident, mistake or inadvertence, an inventor fails to pay any such fee within the time so limited, he may apply to the Governor General in Council for an enlargement of the time for making the payment.

(4) Thereupon the Governor General in Council may enlarge the time accordingly, on payment of the fee prescribed in that behalf in the fourth schedule and subject to the following conditions, namely :—

(a) the time for making a payment shall not in any case be enlarged for more than three months ; and

(b) if any suit is instituted in respect of an infringement of the exclusive privilege committed after a failure to make a payment within the time limited for the making thereof and before the enlargement of that time, the Court disposing of the suit may, if it thinks fit, refuse to award or give any damages in respect of the infringement.

Form and contents of specification.

9. (1) A specification filed under this Part must be in writing signed by the applicant, and must set forth the precise invention in respect of which the applicant claims to become entitled to an exclusive privilege.

(2) If the specification is of an invention which is an improvement only, it must by explicit language distinguish between what is old and what is claimed to be new.

The Inventions and Designs Act, 1888.

(Part I.—Inventions.—Sections 10-15.)

(3) Every specification must explain the principle of the invention set forth therein and the best mode in which the applicant has contemplated applying that principle, and must describe the manner of making and using the invention in such full, clear, concise and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art or science to which the invention appertains, or with which it is most closely connected, to make or use the same.

Mode of filing application and specification.

10. Every application for leave to file a specification, and every specification filed under this Part, must be left with, or sent by post to, the Secretary, and the date of the delivery or receipt thereof shall be endorsed thereon and recorded in his office.

Delivery and distribution of copies of specification.

11. (1) At the time of delivering or sending the specification for the purpose of its being filed, the applicant shall cause to be delivered or sent therewith to the Secretary as many copies thereof, not being fewer than four, as may be required by the rules for the time being in force under this Part.

(2) One of these copies shall be retained by the Secretary, and one shall be sent to the Governor of Fort St. George in Council, one to the Governor of Bombay in Council, one to the Chief Commissioner of Burma, and the others, if any, to such auhorities as the Governor General in Council may appoint in this behalf.

(3) The copies of the specification which are sent under sub-section (2) to the authorities mentioned or referred to in that sub-section shall be open to the inspection of any person at all reasonable times at places to be appointed by those authorities.

Register of inventions.

12. (1) A book, to be called the register of inventions, shall be kept in the office of the Secretary wherein shall be entered and recorded every application for leave to file a specification, every order made on any such application, every specification filed in pursuance thereof, and every subsequent proceeding relating to the invention described therein.

(2) Applications for leave to file a specification shall be numbered consecutively in the order in which they are delivered or received, and be dated as of the day of their delivery or receipt, and shall be entered in the register of inventions in the order of their respective numbers.

(3) A reference shall be made in that register, in the margin of the entry of each application, to every order on or in respect of the application, to the specification, if any, filed in pursuance thereof, and to every subsequent proceeding relating to the invention which forms the subject of the application.

Address-book.

13. (1) Another book, to be called the address-book, shall be kept in the office of the Secretary wherein any person filing a specification under this Part, or any person in whom an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part, or any share or interest therein, may become vested, may from time to time cause to be stated some place in British India where notice of any rule or proceeding relating to the exclusive privilege may be served on him.

(2) A reference to each entry in the address-book shall be made in the register of inventions in the margin of the entry in that register of the application for leave to file the specification.

Provisions with respect to the register and book.

14. (1) Every entry in the register of inventions or address-book, and every document entered and recorded in the register, shall, for the purposes of the law of evidence for the time being in force, be deemed to be a public document and shall be open to the inspection of any person at all reasonable times at the office of the Secretary.

(2) The books kept under section 11 and section 35 of Act No. XV of 1859 (an Act for granting exclusive Privileges to Inventors) shall be deemed to be parts of the register of inventions and address-book respectively.

Extension of exclusive privilege.

15. (1) The inventor of a new manufacture may, at any time not more than one year and not less than six months before the time limited for the expiration of an exclusive privilege acquired under section 8, apply to the Governor General in Council for an extension of the privilege for a further term.

(2) When an application is made under sub-section (1), the Governor General in Council may, if he thinks fit, refer it to a High Court for report.

(3) The Court to which the application is referred shall, in making its report, have regard to the nature and merits of the invention in relation to the public, to the profits made by the inventor as such, and to all the circumstances of the case.

(4) The procedure on the reference shall be such as the Court thinks fit, and may include the issue of citations calling upon persons claiming to have any interest in the reference to appear before the Court on the day on which the reference is to be considered, or on any day to which the consideration thereof may be adjourned, and make with respect thereto any representation which they may see fit in relation to any of the matters to which the Court is required by the last foregoing sub-section to have regard in making its report.

(5) If the Governor General in Council is of opinion, or, where a reference has been made under sub-section (2), if the Court reports, that the inventor has been inadequately remunerated by his exclusive privilege, the Governor General in Council may, on payment of the fee prescribed in that behalf in the fourth schedule, make an order extending the term of the privilege for a further term not exceeding seven or, in exceptional cases, fourteen years from the expiration of the first term of fourteen years.

(6) But an exclusive privilege of which the term has been extended under the last foregoing sub-section shall, notwithstanding anything in that sub-section, cease if the inventor fails to pay before the expiration of each year of such extended term the fee prescribed in the schedule aforesaid in respect of the continuance of the privilege.

Imposition of conditions with respect to exclusive privilege.

16. An order under section 6, sub-section (1), authorizing the filing of a specification, or under section 15, sub-section (5), extending the term of an exclusive privilege, may be made subject to such conditions as the Governor General in Council thinks expedient.

Exclusive privilege to bind the Government.

17. (1) Subject to any conditions imposed under the last foregoing section—

(a) with respect to the filing, by a person employed in the service of Her Majesty in India, of the specification of a manufacture invented by him in the course of his employment, or

(b) with respect to the extension, in favour of any person, of the term of an exclusive privilege, an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part shall have to all intents the like effect as against Her Majesty as it has against a subject.

(2) But the officers or authorities administering any department of the service of Her Majesty may, by themselves, their agents, contractors or others, at any time after the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification of an invention, use the invention for the services of the Government on terms to be before or after the use thereof agreed on, with the approval of the Governor General in Council, between those officers or authorities and the inventor, or, in default of such agreement, on such terms as may be settled by the Governor General in Council.

Application for leave to file memorandum or amended specification.

18. (1) If, after the filing of the specification, the applicant has reason to believe that through mistake or inadvertence he has erroneously made any mis-statement in his application or specification or included therein something which at the date of the delivery or receipt of his application was not new or whereof he was not the inventor, or that the specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, he may apply to the Governor General in Council for leave to file a memorandum pointing out the mis-statement or disclaiming any part of the alleged invention, or for leave to file an amended specification, as the case may be.

(2) The application must be in writing signed by the applicant, and must state how the error, defect or insufficiency occurred and that it was not fraudulently intended.

(3) Upon the application the Governor General in Council may make an order allowing the memorandum or amended specification to be filed.

(4) The provisions of section 6 with respect to applications, and of sections 9 and 11 with respect to specifications and copies thereof, shall apply, so far as they can be made applicable, to applications and to amended specifications, respectively, made and filed under this section.

Effect of amended specification.

19. An amended specification filed under the last foregoing section shall, except as to any suit or proceeding relating to the exclusive privilege which may be pending at the time of the filing of the amended specification, have the same effect as if it had been the specification first filed:

Provided that nothing in an amended specification shall be construed to extend or enlarge an exclusive privilege before acquired.

Bar to exclusive privilege in certain cases.

20. A person shall not be entitled to an exclusive privilege under this Part—

(a) if the invention is of no utility, or

(b) if the invention, at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification thereof, was not a new invention within the meaning of this Part, or

(c) if the applicant is not the inventor thereof, or

(d) if the original or any amended specification does not fulfil the requirements of this Part, or

(e) if the original or any subsequent application relating to the invention or the original or any amended specification contains a wilful or fraudulent mis-statement, or

(f) if the application for leave to file the specification of the invention was made under this Part after the expiration of one year from the date of the acquisition of an exclusive privilege in respect of the invention in any place beyond the limits of British India and the United Kingdom.

Novelty of invention dependent on public use or knowledge thereof before application to file specification.

21. An invention shall be deemed a new invention within the meaning of this Part if it has not before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification thereof been publicly used in any part of British India or of the United Kingdom, or been made publicly known in any part of British India or of the United Kingdom by means of a written publication.

Effect of public use or knowledge of invention in fraud of inventor.

22. The public use or knowledge of an invention before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file a specification thereof shall not be deemed a public use or knowledge within the meaning of this Part if the knowledge has been obtained surreptitiously or in fraud of the inventor or has been communicated to the public in fraud of the inventor or in breach of confidence:

Provided that the inventor has not acquiesced in the public use of his invention, and that, within six months after the commencement of that use, he applies for leave to file a specification.

Effect of temporary use of invention in public by inventor or by his leave.

23. Use of an invention in public by the inventor thereof, or by his servant or agent, or by any other person by his license in writing, for a period not exceeding one year immediately preceding the date of the delivery or receipt of his application for leave to file a specification thereof, or knowledge of the invention resulting from such use thereof in public, shall not be deemed a public use or knowledge within the meaning of this Part.

Effect of public use or knowledge of patented invention between application for patent and application to file specification.

24. If an inventor who has obtained a patent for his invention in the United Kingdom causes an application for leave to file a specification of the invention under this Part to be delivered or received by the Secretary within twelve months from the date of the actual sealing of the patent, the invention shall be deemed a new invention within the meaning of this Part if it was not publicly used or known in any part of British India at or before the date of the application for the patent, notwithstanding that it may have been publicly used or known in some part of British India or of the United Kingdom before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application under this Part for leave to file the specification.

Effect of like public use or knowledge of unpatented invention.

25. If an inventor applies for leave to file a specification under this Part while his application for a patent is pending in the United Kingdom, and the interval between the date of his application for the patent and the date of the delivery or receipt of his application under this Part does not exceed twelve months, the invention shall not be deemed to have been publicly used, or made publicly known, within the meaning of this Part, by reason only of the invention having been used, or a description thereof having been published, in any part of British India or of the United Kingdom during the interval.

Effect of public use or knowledge of invention after admission to an exhibition.

26. If an inventor, being the exhibitor of his invention at an industrial or international exhibition, certified as such by the Governor General in Council, causes an application for leave to file a specification of the invention to be delivered to or received by the Secretary within six months from the date of the admission of the invention into that exhibition, the invention shall not be deemed to have been publicly used, or made publicly known, within the meaning of this Part, by reason only of the invention having at any time after admission into the exhibition been publicly used or made publicly known.

Cessation of exclusive privilege by order of the Government.

27. (1) An exclusive privilege acquired under this Part shall cease if the Governor General in Council declares the privilege, or the mode in which it is exercised, to be mischievous to the State, or generally prejudicial to the public.

(2) It shall also cease if a breach of any condition on which the applicant was authorised to file a specification, or on which the term of the exclusive privilege was extended, is on an application under this Part to a High Court proved to the satisfaction of that Court, and if the Governor General in Council thereupon declares the privilege to have ceased.

Cessation of exclusive privilege on revocation or expiration of patent.

28. (1) An exclusive privilege acquired under this Part in respect of an invention for which a patent has been obtained in the United Kingdom shall cease on the revocation or expiration of the patent.

(2) Such a privilege in respect of an invention for which a patent has not been obtained in the United Kingdom shall cease on the revocation or expiration of any patent or exclusive privilege which has been obtained or acquired for or in respect of the invention in any other country.

Suit for infringement of exclusive privilege.

29. (1) An inventor may institute a suit in the District Court against any person who, during the continuance of an exclusive privilege acquired by him under this Part in respect of an invention, makes, sells or uses the invention without his license, or counterfeits or imitates it.

(2) The suit shall not be defended upon the ground of any defect or insufficiency of the specification of the invention, or upon the ground that the original or any subsequent application relating to the invention, or the original or any amended specification, contains a wilful or fraudulent mis-statement, or upon the ground that the invention is of no utility:

(3) Nor shall it be defended upon the ground that the plaintiff was not the inventor, unless the defendant shows that he himself is the actual inventor or has obtained from the actual inventor a right to make, sell or use the invention, or to counterfeit or imitate it, as the case may be:

(4) Nor shall it be defended upon the ground that the invention was not new, unless the defendant, or some person through whom he claims, has, before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, publicly or actually used in some part of British India or of the United Kingdom the invention or that part of it with respect to which the exclusive privilege is alleged to have been infringed.

Application to declare exclusive privilege in respect of an invention not to have been acquired.

30. Any person may apply to a High Court for a rule to show cause why the Court should not declare that an exclusive privilege in respect of an invention to be specified in the rule has not been acquired under this Part by reason of all or any of the objections following (to be specified in the rule), that is to say:—

(a) that the invention is of no utility, or

(b) that the invention was not, at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, a new invention within the meaning of this Part, or

(c) that the applicant was not the inventor thereof, or

(d) that the original or any amended specification does not fulfil the requirements of this Part, or

(e) that the applicant has knowingly or fraudulently included in the application for leave to file the specification or in the original or any amended specification, as part of his invention, something which was not new or whereof he was not the inventor, or

(f) that the original or any subsequent application relating to the invention, or the original or any amended specification, contains a wilful or fraudulent mis-statement, or

(g) that some part of the invention, or the manner in which that part is to be made and used, as described in the original or any amended specification, is not thereby sufficiently described, and that this insufficiency was fraudulent and is injurious to the public.

Like application as to part of an invention.

31. Any person may apply to a High Court for a rule to show cause why the Court should not declare that an exclusive privilege in respect of any part of an invention, to be specified in the rule has not been acquired under this Part, by reason of all or any of the objections following (to be specified in the rule) that is to say:—

(a) that that part of the invention is wholly distinct from the other parts thereof and is of no utility, or

(b) that that part of the invention was not, at the date of the delivery of receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, a new invention within the meaning of this Part, or

(c) that the applicant was not the inventor of that part of the invention, or

(d) that that part of the invention, or the manner in which it is to be made and used, is not sufficiently described in the original or any amended specification, and that this insufficiency is injurious to the public.

Security for costs of application under either of the two last foregoing sections.

32. The High Court may, irrespective of any provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure in this behalf, require a person applying for a rule under either of the two last foregoing sections to give security for the payment of all costs incurred or likely to be incurred by any person appearing to show cause against the rule. XIV of 1882.

Application on breach of condition.

33. (1) Any person authorised by the Governor General in Council in this behalf may apply to a High Court for a rule to show cause why the question of the breach of any condition on which leave to file a specification has been granted, or any other question of fact on which the cessation of an exclusive privilege under section 27 may, in the judgment of the Governor General in Council, depend, should not be tried in the form of an issue directed by the Court.

(2) If the rule is made absolute, the Court, unless the breach or other matter of fact is admitted, may direct the issue to be tried and certify the result of the trial to the Governor General in Council.

Notice of proceedings to persons interested.

34. (1) Notice of any rule obtained or proceeding taken under section 30, section 31 or section 33 shall be served on all persons appearing from the address-book to be proprietors of the exclusive privilege, or to have shares or interests therein, and it shall not be necessary to serve the notice on any other person.

(2) The notice shall be deemed to be sufficiently served if a copy thereof is left at the place for the time being stated in the address-book, by delivering the copy to any person resident at or in charge of the place or, if there is no person resident at or in charge of the place, or if the place is not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, by causing the notice to be sent to the place by post by a registered letter directed to the person to whom the notice is addressed.

The Inventions and Designs Act, 1888.

(Part I.—Inventions.—Sections 35-38.)

Framing issue for trial before other Court.

35. (1) The High Court may, if it thinks fit, direct an issue for the trial, before itself or any other High Court, or any District Court, of any question of fact arising upon an application under section 30, section 31 or section 33, and the issue shall be tried accordingly.

(2) If the issue is directed to another Court, the finding shall be certified by that Court to the Court directing the issue.

(3) If the issue is directed to a District Court, the finding of that Court shall not be subject to appeal, but the evidence taken upon the trial shall be recorded, and a copy thereof, certified by the Judge of the Court, shall be transmitted, together with any remarks which he may think fit to make thereon, to the High Court, and the High Court may thereupon act upon the finding of the District Court, or dispose of the application upon the evidence recorded, or direct a new trial, as the justice of the case may require.

Order on application.

36. (1) If it appears to the High Court at the hearing of an application under section 30 or section 31 that, by reason of any of the objections specified in the rule, the exclusive privilege in the invention or in any part thereof has not been acquired, the Court shall make an order accordingly, and thereupon the applicant shall, so long as the order continues in force, cease to be entitled to the exclusive privilege.

(2) If it appears to the High Court, at the hearing of any such application as last aforesaid, that the applicant has, in the description of his invention in the application for leave to file a specification thereof or in the original or any amended specification, erroneously included something which at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification was not new or whereof he was not the inventor, or that the specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, but that the error, defect or insufficiency was not fraudulently intended, the Court may adjudge the exclusive privilege to have been acquired and to be valid, save as to the part thereof affected by the error, defect or insufficiency: or

(3) If it appears to the High Court that the error, defect or insufficiency can be amended without injury to the public, the Court may adjudge the exclusive privilege in respect of the whole of the invention to be valid, and may, upon such terms as it thinks reasonable, order the specification to be amended in any particular in which it is erroneous, defective or insufficient; and thereupon the applicant shall, within a time to be limited by the Court for the purpose, file in the office of the Secretary a specification amended according to the order.

(4) The provisions of section 18 with respect to the distribution and disposal of copies of amended specifications, and of section 19 with respect to the effect of such specifications, shall apply, so far as they can be made applicable, to an amended specification filed under this section.

(5) An exclusive privilege in respect of an invention shall not be defeated upon the ground that the application for leave to file the specification of the invention contains a mis-statement, unless the mis-statement was wilful or fraudulent.

Delivery of particulars.

37. (1) In a suit for the infringement of an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part the plaintiff shall deliver with his plaint particulars of the breaches complained of in the suit, and the defendant shall deliver a written statement of the particulars of the grounds, if any, upon which he means to contend that the plaintiff is not entitled to an exclusive privilege in respect of the invention.

(2) In like manner, upon an application to a High Court under section 30, section 31 or section 33, the person making the application shall deliver particulars of the objections or grounds on which he means to rely.

(3) At the hearing of any such suit or application, or at the trial of any issue arising out of any such application, evidence shall not be allowed to be given in proof of any breach of the exclusive privilege, or of any ground impeaching the validity of that privilege, or of any objection or ground affecting such a privilege, unless such breach or other matter as aforesaid has been stated in the particulars delivered under this section.

(4) If it is alleged that the invention was publicly used or known before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification thereof, the places where and the manner in which the invention was so publicly used or known shall be stated in the particulars.

(5) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing portion of this section, the Court in which the suit or application is pending, or an issue arising out of the application is being tried, may allow the plaintiff or defendant respectively to amend the particulars delivered under this section upon such terms as it thinks fit.

Title of actual inventor to exclusive privilege in case of fraud.

38. If, in a suit instituted in the District Court at any time within fourteen years from the date of the filing of a specification of an invention under this Part, the actual inventor proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the applicant was not the actual inventor, and that at the time of the application for leave to file the specification the applicant knew or had reason to believe that the knowledge of the invention was obtained by himself or by some other person surreptitiously or in fraud of the actual inventor, or by means of a communication made in confidence by the actual inventor to him or to any person through whom he derived the knowledge, the Court may make a decree declaring an exclusive privilege in respect of the invention to be vested, subject to the other provisions of this Part, in the actual inventor for a term of fourteen years from the date on which the specification was filed, and requiring the applicant to account for and pay over to the actual inventor the profits derived by him from the invention or so much of those profits as the Court, having regard to the degree of diligence exerted by the actual inventor in proceeding under this section and to all the other circumstances of the case, may see fit to require the applicant to pay.

(Part I.—Inventions.—Sections 39-43.)

Transmission of copies of decrees and orders to Secretary.

39. A Court making a decree in a suit under section 29 or section 38, or an order on an application under section 30, section 31 or section 33, shall send a copy of the decree or order, as the case may be, to the Secretary, who shall cause an entry thereof and reference thereto to be made in the register of inventions and against any entry in the address-book affected thereby.

Registration of cessation of exclusive privilege.

40. In the following cases, namely:—

(a) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased under section 8 or section 15 by reason of a fee in respect of the continuance of the privilege not having been paid within the time limited by the fourth schedule for the payment thereof, and the period, if any, within which an order might have been made for enlarging the time for the making of the payment has expired;

(b) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has been declared by the Governor General in Council under section 27 to have ceased;

(c) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased under section 28 by reason of the revocation or expiration of a patent or exclusive privilege;

(d) when the whole or any part of an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased under section 36 in consequence of an order under that section;

(e) when an exclusive privilege has been declared by a decree to have vested in an actual inventor under section 38;

(f) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased by reason of the expiration of the term for which it was acquired;

the Secretary shall cause an entry with respect to the cessation or vesting of the exclusive privilege to be made in the register of inventions, and a reference to that entry to be made in the margin of the entry in that register of the application for leave to file the specification of the invention.

Rectification of register of inventions or address-book.

41. (1) If any person is aggrieved by an entry in the register of inventions or address-book, or by the omission of an entry therefrom, and a proceeding is not provided in the foregoing portion of this Part whereby the register or book may be rectified, he may apply to a High Court for an order for the rectification of the register or book, and the Court may make such order on the application as it thinks fit.

(2) A copy of the order shall be forwarded by the Court to the Secretary, who shall cause an entry thereof and reference thereto to be made in the register of inventions and against any entry in the address-book affected thereby.

(3) When the Secretary is a party to an application under this section, the costs of another party thereto shall not be adjudged to be payable by the Secretary.

Power to High Court to stay proceedings on or dismiss certain applications.

42. A High Court to which an application has been made under section 30, section 31, section 33 or section 41 may stay proceedings on, or dismiss, the application if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by another High Court.

Power for Governor General in Council to require grant of licenses.

43. If on the petition of any person interested it is proved to the Governor General in Council that, by reason of an inventor who has acquired an exclusive privilege under this Part failing to grant licenses on reasonable terms,—

(a) the exclusive privilege is not being worked in British India, or

(b) the reasonable requirements of the public with respect to the invention cannot be supplied, or

(c) any person is prevented from working or using to the best advantage an invention of which he is possessed, the Governor General in Council may order the inventor to grant, or may himself on behalf of the inventor grant, licenses on such terms as to the amount of royalties, security for payment, or otherwise, as the Governor General in Council, having regard to the nature of the invention and the circumstances of the case, may deem just.

Subscription of specifications and applications

45. If an applicant is absent from British India, an application for leave to file a specification, or a specification, or an application for leave to file a memorandum or amended specification, may, instead of being signed by the applicant under section 5, section 9 or section 18, as the case may be, be signed on behalf of the applicant by an agent in British India authorised by him in writing in that behalf.

Verification of applications.

46. (1) An application under this Part for leave to file a specification, memorandum or amended specification must be verified by the person making the application.

(2) If that person is absent from British India, the application may be verified by the agent who signs the application on his behalf.

(3) The verification must be signed by the person making it, and must be to the effect that the facts stated in the application are true to his knowledge, except as to matters stated on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes them to be true.

Agents.

47. Subject to the provisions of the two last foregoing sections and of any other enactment for the time being in force, any act which is required or authorised by this Part to be done by any person may be done on his behalf by an agent in British India having authority in writing from that person so to do the act.

(2) If he fails to cause the article to be so marked, the copyright in the design shall cease unless the proprietor shows that he took all proper steps to ensure the marking of the article.

Effect of exhibiting unregistered designs at exhibitions.

55. If the proprietor of a design exhibited at an industrial or international exhibition, certified as such by the Governor General in Council, causes an application for an order for the registration of the design to be delivered to or received by the Secretary within six months from the date of the admission of the design into that exhibition, the design shall not be deemed not to be a new and original design not previously published in British India within the meaning of section 51 by reason only of the design having been exhibited at the exhibition.

Mutation of names in register of designs.

56. Any person in whom the copyright in a design has become vested may apply to the Secretary for the entry of his name in the register of designs as proprietor of the copyright, and the Secretary may, if he sees fit, cause the entry to be made.

Suit for infringement of copyright.

57. (1) The registered proprietor of a design may institute a suit in the District Court for the recovery of any damages arising from the application by any person to any article of the design or of any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof for the purpose of sale, or from the publication, sale or exposure for sale by any person of any article to which the design, or any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof, has been applied, that person knowing or having reason to believe that the proprietor had not given his consent to such application.

(2) When the Court makes a decree in a suit under this section, it shall send a copy of the decree to the Secretary, who shall cause an entry thereof to be made in the register of designs.

Registration of cessation of copyright.

58. (1) When, from the expiration of the term of a copyright or from any other cause, the copyright in a design has ceased, the Secretary shall cause an entry with respect to the cessation of the right to be made in the register of designs.

Rectification of register of designs.

59. (1) A High Court may, on the application of any person aggrieved by an entry in the register of designs, or by the omission of an entry therefrom, make such order for the rectification of the register as it thinks fit.

(3) A copy of the order shall be forwarded by the Court to the Secretary, who shall cause an entry thereof to be made in the register of designs.

EXTENSION OF THE REVENUE MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 20th March 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A memorial from Zemindars of the Chittagong district, received 28th March 1884, praying to be permitted to remit the Government revenue, cesses, &c., by postal money-orders.

A letter dated 1st August 1886, from the Tirhoot Landholders' Association, and a petition dated 6th March 1887, from a Zemindar of Sherepore in Tirhoot, praying as above.

A petition from Messrs. Bird and Company, dated the 15th December 1884, suggesting that a postal money-order may be treated as equivalent for money or Government securities under section 15 of Act XI of 1859.

A letter No. 62, dated 23rd December 1887, from the Honorary Secretary to the East Bengal Landholders' Association, urging that the present maximum limit for revenue money-orders be raised to Rs. 100.

THE Government of Bengal has from time to time received memorials from zemindars representing the inconvenience which they experience in having to pay their land revenue at district head-quarters, often situated at a great distance from their residences, and requesting permission to transmit such dues by postal money-orders. The Board of Revenue and Collectors, when first consulted as to the proposed arrangement, represented that the difficulties would be very considerable; but afterwards, on considering a complete scheme framed by the Postmaster-General, Bengal, for giving effect to the wishes of those concerned, they viewed the suggestion with greater favour. In October, 1886, the system of payment by postal money-orders was accordingly introduced experimentally in the Dacca and Burdwan Divisions for land revenue demands of less than fifty rupees a year, and, having proved successful within these local limits, it was extended in 1887 to all the districts of Lower Bengal. It is understood that the concession thus made has been generally appreciated, and the Lieutenant-Governor has now much pleasure in providing, at the suggestion of the Board of Revenue and the Postmaster-General, that from the first day of April it shall extend to all demands on account of land revenue, of whatever amount, and also to Zemindary Dâk, Road, and Public Works cesses. The rules upon the subject given below are published for general information.

2. Other public demands may be paid at the option of the payer by ordinary postal money-orders, provided that the particulars given in the accompanying letters are sufficient for the department concerned.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RULES RELATING TO REVENUE MONEY ORDERS.

These rules are divided into five parts:—

PART I.—Form of Revenue Money Order.
PART II.—Issue of Revenue Money Orders.
PART III.—Payment of Revenue Money Orders.
Section A.—Payment from Disbursing Offices at the Head quarters of districts.
Section B.—Procedure to be followed in the Collectorate.
PART IV.—Treatment of Revenue Money Orders not accepted by the Collector.
PART V.—Disposal of Acknowledgements.

PART I.

THE FORM OF REVENUE MONEY ORDERS.

1. The Revenue Money Order form is divided into four parts, viz.—

(a) the Money Order,
(b) lower portion of Money Order or the Receipt,
(c) the Coupon or Challan,
(d) the Acknowledgment.

2. Parts (a) and (b) require no description as they are exactly like the corresponding portions of the ordinary inland Money Order form. Parts (c) and (d) are considerably larger than the Coupon and Acknowledgement of an ordinary Money Order. Part (c) contains on one side all the particulars required by the Treasury and on the reverse instructions for remitters of Revenue Money Orders. Part (d) is on one side a duplicate of the Challan and is returned to the remitter as his receipt; on the reverse of this part are the remitter's name and address.

3. This form is to be used for remittances of land revenue, Road and Public Works Cess and zemindari dâk cess, and for no other purpose.

4. The forms of Revenue Money Order should be freely distributed among the revenue-paying classes, and no restrictions whatever should be placed in the way of zemindars obtaining these forms.

5. Every Postmaster, Sub-Postmaster and Branch Postmaster will be personally responsible that a sufficient supply of Revenue Money Orders is always available in his office. In cases of emergency, supplies may be obtained by telegraph direct from the Stock Depôt of the Circle. Divisional Superintendents and Inspectors, when visiting Offices, will see that a sufficient supply of Revenue Money Order forms is available, and mention in their diaries and inspection reports that they have done so.

PART II.

Issue of Revenue Money Orders.

6. Revenue Money Orders are issued from every Head, Sub and Branch Post Office under the rules which govern the issue of ordinary Indian Money Orders. The following paragraphs contain additional instructions which relate solely to the issue of Revenue Money Orders.

7. The Rules in the Postal Guide fixing the limit of value of a single ordinary Inland Money Order and the limit of the aggregate value of the money orders issued in one day by the same remitter to the same payee apply to Revenue Money Orders. The rule prohibiting the inclusion of pies (fractions of an anna) in the amount of a Money Order is not applicable to Revenue Money Orders, which may be for amounts including any fraction of an anna not less than one pie.

8. The Office of Issue will help the remitter in making the requisite entries, and, if necessary, will make entries for him in the form of a Revenue Money Order, but no fee or any other gratification whatsoever is to be demanded or accepted, either directly or indirectly, by any official of the Postal Department for this service. Disregard of this order will be punished by dismissal of the official in fault, who will, moreover, be liable to any further penalties provided by law.

9. The Office of Issue is responsible that no Revenue Money Order is issued of which the Coupon (Challan) is blank or is not completely filled up. The Post Office has no means of ascertaining the correctness of the information supplied by a remitter: all that it is necessary to see is that entries are made against every printed item in the Coupon (Challan), and that the Money Order is not for a larger sum than is allowed by the rules for ordinary Inland Money Orders. The spaces in the Acknowledgment and challan for the entry of interest and expences (khuracha) are intended to meet the requirements of remitters, who are in arrears as regards the payment of their cesses and have incurred liabilities for interests, process fees, or other costs of proceedings.

10. The letter "R" should be written before the number of every Revenue Money Order, and this mode of distinguishing Revenue Money Orders should be adopted wherever the number is entered.

11. The number assigned to a Revenue Money Order by the Head Office or Sub-office of Issue will also be entered at the top of the Coupon (Challan) acknowledgement by the Money Order Clerk of the Head Office or the Sub-Postmaster of the Sub-office of Issue as the case may be.

12. On the 5th of every month Head and Sub-offices will prepare a return (Form $\frac{4}{\text{R. M. O.}}$ of all Revenue Money Orders issued during the last month, and forward the same to the Disbursing Postmaster who will compile a General District Return and submit it to the Head of the circle not later than the 15th of the month following that to which it relates. Branch Offices will not submit returns, as Revenue Money Orders issued from such offices will be included in the returns of the Account Offices to which they are attached. The district return submitted by the Disbursing Postmaster will be in Form $\frac{5}{\text{R. M. O.}}$

PART III.

Payment of Revenue Money Orders.

Section A.—Procedure in the Disbursing Office.

13. When the Revenue Money Orders are in all respects ready to be handed over to the Postman, a list in duplicate (Form $\frac{3}{\text{R. M. O.}}$) should be made out by the Money Order Clerk, and the entries in the money column of the list should be carefully totalled. The date of stamp of the office of payment should be impressed in the space provided for it on the Coupon (Challan) of each Money Order.

14. The Money Orders, both copies of the list, and a slip receipt (Form $\frac{3}{\text{R. M. O.}}$) duly filled up, should then be made over to the Postman for delivery at the Collectorate, the Postman's receipt for the documents being taken in the usual manner in the Register of Money Orders received.

15. The Postman will deliver all the documents mentioned in paragraph 14 to the treasury officer (or other responsible official authorized by the Collector, in writing, to receive Revenue Money Orders and whose name has been communicated by the Collector to the Postmaster) and will take back to the Post Office the slip receipt duly signed by the officer receiving the Money Orders. The slip receipt will be kept by the Money Order Clerk under lock and key.

16. When the original list, duly signed by the treasury officer or other authorized officer, is received back, along with the refused Money Orders (if any), the Postmaster will give in exchange for the list a treasury voucher (Form AC—17) representing the value of the Money Orders accepted, as shown in the certificate at the foot of the list. The Money Order Clerk will report to the Postmaster if the original list (with any refused Money Orders) is not received back at latest on the day following that on which it was sent to the Collectorate.

17. The Postmaster should on no account give a treasury voucher, in payment of Revenue Money Orders, without receiving the original list with the certificate of acceptance written at the foot thereof.

18. The Postmaster will be responsible always to have sufficient funds at his credit in the district treasury to meet Revenue Money Order demands, and it will be his duty, when giving a treasury voucher, to see that there are funds in the district treasury to meet it.

19. The original list and the slip receipt will be filed together by the Money Order Clerk. The refused Money Orders (if any) will be dealt with in accordance with the instructions laid down in Part IV of these rules.

20. On receipt of the Money Orders, together with the receipts and acknowledgments duly signed, the Money Order Clerk will examine and compare all the documents with the original list already in his possession, and with the duplicate presented to him along with these documents, and, if all are found correct, will sign the duplicate list and return it to the Collectorate official who brought back the documents to the Post Office.

21. The Money Order Clerk should be particularly careful to see that he receives from the Collectorate an acknowlegment for every Money Order accepted, and that every acknowledgment which he receives is in acknowledgment of the full amount of the Money Order to which it appertains.

22. The Money Orders received back from the Collectorate, with their receipts, will be entered in the Journal of Money Orders paid, and be disposed of in the usual manner. The acknowledgments will be returned to the remitters in the manner described in Part V of these rules.

23. The amount of the treasury voucher will be entered in the Post Office and Treasurer's cash day books and the cash account on the receipt side opposite the item "Drawn from District Treasury," and will be included in the sum entered on the disbursement side under the head "Amount of Money Orders paid." All these entries must be made on the same date. The amount will also appear in the Treasury account as money drawn from the District Treasury, and if the date of entry in the Treasury account differs from that of the entries mentioned above, the difference must be explained in the Treasury suspense account.

24. Before the duplicate list is finally returned to the Collectorate, the Money Order Clerk will carefully compare it with the original, and see that they are exactly alike, any remark recorded in the one list (either in the Collectorate, or by the Money Order Clerk, or the Postmaster) being copied in the other list.

25. It will be the duty of the Money Order Clerk to report to the Postmaster if the receipted Money Orders, with the acknowledgments and the duplicate list, are not returned to him on the day on which the Treasury voucher was sent to the Collectorate.

26. The Money Order Clerk will report to the Postmaster every case in which the Coupon (Challan) of a Revenue Money Order received by him is blank or is imperfectly filled up. Whenever a Revenue Money Order is refused through any fault or omission on the part of the office of issue, the matter should be reported by the Postmaster to the Superintendent.

27. On the 5th of every month the Money Order clerk will prepare a return (Form $\frac{0}{\text{R. M. O}}$) of all Revenue Money Orders received during the last month, and this return will be submitted by the Postmaster to the head of the circle along with the District Return of Revenue Money Orders issued.

SECTION B.—Procedure to be followed in the Collectorate.

28. On receipt of the Money Orders, with other documents, in the Collectorate, the treasury officer, or other responsible official authorised as above (see rule 15) to receive Revenue Money Orders, will carefully compare the entries in the list with the Money Orders, and, when satisfied of their correctness, will sign the slip receipt and hand it over to the postman who has brought the documents to the Collectorate, retaining the other papers for subsequent disposal.

29. The next business to be done in the Collectorate will be the careful examination of the Money Orders to see that the necessary particulars of remittance are given in each case and that the Money Orders can be accepted. This examination should be made by the Towji Navises of the Land Revenue and Cess offices and by the Certificate Department if a certificate has issued on account of Road and Public Works Cess. If the amounts due on account of any cess, interest and expenses are wrongly distributed by the remitter in the Money Order, the Cess Department will correct the distribution. It is not necessary at this stage that the Money Orders should be sent to or examined by the Magistrate's office even when they contain remittances of zemindari dâk cess. No Money Order should be refused provided that the remittance is one to which the system applies, and that the particulars required by the rules and form are given. The fact that the amount is remitted is less or more than is due is not a ground for refusal. If more than is due is remitted, the excess should be credited as a payment in advance; if less than is due is remitted, it should be treated as a payment on account. When a Money Order is refused, the ground of refusal must be endorsed on the Money Order.

30. The original list, together with the refused Money Orders (if any), must be returned to the Post Office, and a treasury voucher be obtained immediately on the certificate of acceptance being signed. The officer signing the certificate will be responsible that the check prescribed in paragraph 29 has been carried out, and that the original list, with the certificate duly endorsed, is returned to the Post Office on the day of receipt, or at latest on the following day.

31. On receipt of the treasury voucher from the Post Office, the treasury officer will to the same day credit the amount thereof under the appropriate heads of account as remittances received by means of Money Orders from the persons concerned, and will charge the amount against the monthly letter of credit of the Postal Department as money paid to the Disbursing Postmaster.

32. After the amount of the treasury voucher has been credited and debited in the Treasury accounts, the acknowledgments will be signed by the Accountant.

33. The Money Orders will then be signed by the Treasury officer or other officer authorised as above to receive them, and that officer, after detaching the Coupons (Challans) from the Money Orders, will return the original orders, with the receipts, acknowledgments, and the duplicate list, to the Post Office and retain the Challans in the Collectorate. The Challans should then be sent to the Land Revenue, Road Cess and Zemindary Dâk offices in the order named so that the remittances may be entered in the departmental registers. The Challans should be initialled by a responsible officer of each department and then be returned to the Collectorate.

34. The original Money Orders, with their receipts and acknowledgments, must be returned by the Collectorate on the day on which the Treasury voucher is received. This period is on no account to be exceeded.

35. When the duplicate list, with the Postmaster's acknowledgment for the documents returned to him written thereon, is received back from the Post Office, it should be attached to the challans and filed in the Collectorate.

PART IV.

Treatment of Revenue Money Orders not accepted by the Collectorate.

36. If the Collector or the officer to whom he delegates authority in this matter declines to accept a Money Order, because of the omission of necessary particulars in the Coupon (Challan) or other cause, the Money Order will be treated as refused and be disposed of in the usual manner.

PART V.

Disposal of Acknowledgments.

37. The acknowledgments appertaining to Revenue Money Orders received from the Collectorate will be sorted separately for each Office of Issue and enclosed in envelopes (Form $\frac{9}{\text{R. M. O.}}$) addressed to the Postmasters of those offices; the numbers of the Money Orders to which the acknowledgments appertain being detailed on the back of the envelopes.

38. These envelopes will be entered in detail in a special memorandum book (Form $\frac{7}{\text{R. M. O.}}$) and be despatched as letters registered on Postal Service. The total number of acknowledgments closed in each envelope will be the registered number assigned to that envelope.

39. On arrival in the Office of Issue, the envelopes will be opened and the acknowledgments contained in each envelope compared with the entries on the back thereof. The acknowledgments will then be stamped with the Money Order Stamp and be sorted for distribution to Postmen. The numbers of all acknowledgments to be given to each Postman will be detailed separately in a special memorandum book (Form $\frac{8}{\text{R. M. O.}}$) and the Postman's signature obtained against the entry. The acknowledgments will then be handed over to the Postmen. The envelopes will be retained for 12 months, sorted in daily and monthly bundles, and will be destroyed after the expiration of that period.

40. The Postmen will enter the acknowledgments in detail in their books and will obtain the remitter's signature or mark when delivering each acknowledgment.

41. Acknowledgments which cannot be delivered in consequence of the remitter not being found will be returned by the Postman to the Money Order Clerk, Sub-Postmaster or Branch Postmaster (as the case may be), who will sign for them in the Postman's Book.

42. Undelivered acknowledgments will be kept in the Office of Issue (if a Head Office) for a period of 12 months, and, if still unclaimed, will be destroyed.

43. In Sub-offices and Branch Offices undelivered acknowledgments will be retained for a period of three months, and, if still unclaimed, will be forwarded to the Head Office under a Postal Service Registered cover. Such acknowledgments will be kept in the Head Office for a further period of nine months, and, if then still on hand, will be destroyed.

44. Postmasters, Sub-Postmasters, and Branch Postmasters of the Offices of issue will be responsible that acknowledgments are delivered to remitters of Revenue Money Orders without any unnecessary delay and free of charge. Enquiries as to the punctual and free delivery of acknowledgments should be made from time to time from zemindars who may call at the Post Office to have Revenue Money Orders issued.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY 1888.

THE normal meteorological conditions obtaining in the Province of Bengal during the month of February show clearly the commencement of the transition from the cold to the hot season, and the most important feature is undoubtedly the rapid increase of temperature, which usually commences this month, and which is continued during the following two or three months. The rapid increase in temperature is due to the rapidly increasing elevation of the sun, and this heating effect is much more pronounced over the land area than over the sea, so that the dry northerly winds at the southern stations commence to be replaced by moist southerly winds blowing from the sea. The normal conditions in Bengal during February are therefore comparatively simple. Temperature increases steadily, and winds are light, being usually west and north-west at the inland stations, though at the southern stations they alternate between north-west and south-west. The sky is clear and little or no rain falls; and humidity, except when the sea breezes are blowing, is low. These conditions are, however, liable to be disturbed by two or three causes; the first is due to the formation of barometric depressions over Northern and Central India, which drift eastwards and southwards giving heavily clouded skies, a moist atmosphere, and rain. The second class of disturbances is due to the interaction of the dry land winds and moist southerly winds, which sometimes produces the local storms known as nor'westers, and which are frequently accompanied by heavy rain. The third class of feeble disturbances are probably produced by ascensional air motion, and, with the rising of the moist winds, cloud is formed, and in some cases rain also occurs.

The whole of the rainfall in February is therefore brought about by these abnormal conditions, and it is generally irregularly distributed and small in amount, though larger than in January. The normal fall averages about an inch in South-West and East Bengal; it is somewhat smaller in amount in Orissa, where it averages about five-sixths of an inch; in Chutia Nagpur the fall averages about three quarters of an inch, and in North Bengal and Behar the fall equals about half an inch.

Meteorology of the month.—The chief features in the meteorology of February 1888 in Bengal have been—

1. Pressure has been in very slight excess of the normal over the greater part of the Province, the average excess, however, only equalling 0·009 inch. Some parts of East and Central Bengal have, however, shown pressures slightly below the normal.

2. Temperature has been decidedly above the normal in all districts, the excess being rather considerable in Orissa, North Bengal and South Behar, where it has ranged from 1° to 2°. The average excess over the whole Province has been 0·9°.

3. Humidity has been generally below the normal, the defect averaging about 5 per cent. over the whole Province.

4. Cloud proportion has been distinctly larger than usual, though the excess is not very considerable.

5. During the middle of the month two very feeble low-pressure areas drifted across Bengal in an easterly direction, giving a period of unsettled weather, which lasted in some districts from the 9th to the 15th or 17th, but which gave the most general disturbance on the 9th and 10th of the month.

6. Comparatively heavy rainfall has been received in Orissa; falls equal to about the normal amount have been received in East, South-West and North Bengal and in Chutia Nagpur, but in Behar rainfall has been almost absent.

At the commencement and during the first week of February, the meteorological conditions in Bengal call for no particular comment, except that the weather was of typical north-east monsoon character, temperature being exceedingly low and decidedly below the normal. On the 8th instant, however, pressure became rather low over parts of the Central Provinces and Orissa, and on the 9th a distinct low pressure area existed over Orissa, and this depression on the 10th was distinctly marked over Central and East Bengal, but it shortly afterwards disappeared. A second feeble area of low pressure was also formed over the Central Provinces, the North-West Provinces, and the western parts of the Province of Bengal on the 14th, but this did not concentrate into a definite depression. The combined effect of these two disturbances was to give unsettled weather with rain over Orissa from about the 9th to the 15th, over South-West Bengal from about the 9th to the 13th, and to East Bengal from the 10th to the 17th. The disturbed conditions scarcely reached North Behar at all, and in South Behar the disturbance was mainly confined to the Sonthal Pergunnahs district on the 9th and 10th, while in North Bengal and Chutia Nagpur weather was also slightly disturbed on the same two days. After the disappearance of these two disturbances, weather became of ordinary north-east monsoon character for the remainder of the month, and the only point noticeable was the steady rise of temperature and some remarkable oscillations of humidity, the cause of which is explained in the summary of the normal meteorology of the month.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the month have been rather considerable, but the mean pressure for this period has not been very far removed from the normal; and thus, taking into consideration only those stations from which observations have been received for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the mean pressure of the province for February has only been 0·009 inch in excess of the normal. Almost all the stations in Bengal show an excess pressure, but in East Bengal one or two show slight defects. In Assam pressure has been below the normal by 0·005 inch, the largest defect being at Dhubri, where it has equalled 0·016 inch.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the month have been large, and during the early part very low temperatures were recorded. For the whole month the mean temperature of the province has been 0·9° in excess of the normal.

The actual variations and oscillations of temperature for the month are best shown in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in the province are given, week by week, and compared with the normals for the same periods. Speaking broadly, it may be said that temperature was very largely (from 4° to 6°) below the normal at the commencement of the month, while for the remainder it has been rather above it, or almost normal.

In Assam the mean temperature has been almost absolutely normal, the variation being an excess of only 0·2°.

Rainfall.—Has averaged 1·66 inches at the stations in Orissa, which is nearly twice as large as the normal amount; the fall in South-West Bengal has averaged 1·29 inches or about a quarter more than the normal; in Orissa the fall has averaged 1·10 inch or about the normal fall; and the same is the case in Chutia Nagpur, where the actual fall has averaged 0·73 inch. In North Bengal the fall has only equalled 0·42 inch, which is about four-fifths of the normal amount, while rainfall has been practically absent in Behar.

The rainfall in Bengal during February has been decidedly heavy in the following districts:—Cuttack, Balasore, South-West Midnapore and South 24-Pergunnahs, Midnapore, 24-Pergunnahs, Howrah, Hooghly, Chittagong, Dacca, Pubna, Rajshahye, and Singbhoom.

In Assam, Sibsagar has received 2·95 inches during the month, Silchar 1·17 inches, and Dhubri only 2·06 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven Meteorological Divisions of the province for the month of February 1888:—

* Mean for six days. †Mean for 5 days.

Explanations.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The Sky of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers under the Normal means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 12 years on in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

or the week ending Friday, the 16th of March 1888.

CALCUTTA, the 21st March 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 16TH MARCH 1888.

THE weather conditions during the past week have been more or less unsettled. The barometer was low and below its normal height at the commencement, and was also irregular in its movements. There was also a tendency to a slight but distinctly marked depression in North and Central Bengal. The barometric changes of the 10th brought it into greater prominence on the 11th, and a strong inrush of southerly winds set in over South Bengal into the area of low pressure. Thunderstorms occurred on the 10th and 11th in North and East Bengal and the eastern districts of South-West Bengal, and some very heavy showers fell, more especially in the Dacca, Rungpore and Julpigoree districts. A very rapid rise of the barometer occurred on the 12th, but it fell again rapidly on the 13th. Strong southerly winds continued to blow on the 12th and 13th notwithstanding the rapid barometric changes, and a second series of thunderstorms occurred on the 13th and 14th which were more general, and gave even a larger amount of rain than the first series. They extended over East and North Bengal, and nearly the whole of South-West Bengal and North Behar. The rainfall during this series of storms was especially heavy in the Dacca, Furreedpore, Nuddea, Jessore, Mymensingh, Julpigoree and Cooch Behar districts. The barometer moved irregularly but slightly during the remainder of the week, but the southerly winds fell off in strength on the 15th and 16th, and the weather became somewhat less unsettled. Local thunder-showers occurred, chiefly in East Bengal and the northern districts of North Bengal, but the amounts registered were generally small.

Pressure.—The general character of the variations of pressure has been stated in the previous paragraph. The most remarkable feature of the week was the rapid rise of pressure which followed the first series of thunderstorms on the 11th and 12th. It varied from one to two-tenths of an inch. It was followed by nearly as rapid a fall of pressure on the 14th, which immediately preceded the more violent thunderstorms, and the heaviest rainfall of the second series. A reference to the general table will show that the mean pressure variations for the week differed considerably for different parts of the province. Pressure was on the whole slightly above the average in East and North Bengal, which received by far the largest amount of rain, and below it in South-West Bengal, Orissa, Behar (except Purneah), and Chota Nagpur. The deficiency of pressure was actually greatest at Calcutta and Burdwan, where it was very nearly ·01″.

Temperature.—The temperature variations of the week depended mainly upon the occurrence and amount of the rainfall. Thus in East and North Bengal the mean temperature of the week was considerably below the normal, the deficiency averaging 3° in North Bengal and 2½° in East Bengal. In the remainder of the province the temperature of the week was above the average, the excess being 3° in Chota Nagpur and 2° in South Behar and Orissa. Cuttack registered the highest day temperatures during the week, the maximum being 101·9° on the 16th.

The following table gives a comparative statement of the temperature data of the week at nine typical stations :—

Rainfall.—An unusually large amount of rain has fallen during the week, chiefly in connection with two extensive series of thunderstorms and nor'westers. The first series occurred on the 10th and 11th, and was almost entirely confined to East and North Bengal and the southern and eastern districts of South-West Bengal (including the 24-Pergunnahs and Jessore). Rainfalls exceeding two inches were received at a large number of stations in the Dacca and Furreedpore districts on the 11th. Some local showers fell on the 12th, but were generally of little importance. The second series of thunderstorms commenced on the 13th and lasted until the end of the week, but were most general on the 13th and 14th. They extended over the whole of North and East Bengal, and the greater part of South-West Bengal and North Behar, in which districts moderate to heavy rain was generally received. A few light local showers were also received in other districts, more especially in the Sonthal Pergunnahs. The rainfall of the 13th was very heavy in the Dacca, Furreedpore and Nuddea districts, where the majority of the stations received over two inches, and in the northern districts of North Bengal.

The following districts received an average rainfall for the week exceeding two inches:—Dacca 4·49 inches, Commillah 4·1 inches, Furreedpore 3·8 inches, Noakholly 3·38 inches, Darjeeling 2·77 inches, Rungpur 2·34 inches, Julpigoree 2·18 inches, and Nuddea 2·05 inches.

The rainfall of the week was very considerably in excess in the whole of Bengal and North Behar, and was below the average in Orissa, South Behar and Chota Nagpur. The following table gives a comparative statement showing the character of the rainfall of the week in each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

(b) the District Board of Purneah in respect of any public ferry the management of which has been vested in it under section 35 of Act I (B.C.) of 1885; and any Local Board in the district of Purneah when legally vested with powers in respect of any public ferry by the District Board of Purneah.

Rule 2.—Every public ferry in the district of Purneah shall either be held khas by the Magistrate, or be leased by public auction.

Such refund shall be made under the orders of the Magistrate.

CONTINGENT EXPENDITURE.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—FINANCE.

Calcutta, the 22nd March 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Resolution, dated the 20th August 1885.
Circular No. 5, dated the 17th October 1886.
Replies to the Circular.

The Resolution recorded by the Government of Bengal on the 20th August 1885 prescribes the system under which contingent expenditure is at present incurred in Bengal. The expenditure is divided into three classes, viz., Special, for which the previous sanction of Government or of some controlling officer is required; Countersigned, in which sanction is not required, but the bills have to be countersigned by the controlling officer; and Contract, in which a lump sum is placed at the disposal of the disbursing officer, who spends it at his discretion, subject only to the condition that his allotment is not exceeded. By these orders, however, certain items of expenditure, which are not really within the control of the disbursing officer, were included in the Contract allotment; and suggestions for an amendment of the system in this and other directions were made in Government Circular No. 5T—F, dated the 17th October 1886.

2. The reports received from the officers consulted show that there is a consensus of opinion in favour of the general proposals contained in the circular. The first object aimed at was the entire removal from the Contract system of items which do not depend on the discretion of the controlling officer, and in which, therefore, saving can bring him no credit and excess should bring him no blame. The second was to enlarge interest and responsibility by allowing the saving of lump grants and the utilization of savings on objects other than contingencies. As regards the first point, it was proposed to follow the Bombay system, and to allow such expenditure to proceed without audit, the order passing the amount being accepted as a voucher by the Accountant-General. This would, however, reduce to only a few items the expenditure classed under "Countersigned Contingencies," and the question was therefore raised whether it would not be expedient to abolish this class altogether. The whole subject was considered at the conference of Commissioners recently held at Calcutta, and it has been decided to abolish this class and to substitute a class to be called Regular contingencies, in which the charges as they arise will be incurred by the disbursing officer in accordance with the scales laid down by Government, without sanction of superior authority, and without reference to budget provision. The new class will contain the following items :—

1. Fees to pleaders in criminal cases.
2. Fees to pleaders in civil suits.
3. Diet and travelling allowance to witnesses.
4. House allowances.
5. Charges for remittance of treasure to other districts.
6. Escort charges.
7. Remuneration to copyists.
8. Section-writing.
9. Process-serving charges.
10. Keep of elephants.
11. Diet of insane persons.
12. Boarding charges.
13. Diet of patients, &c.
14. Municipal rates and taxes.
15. Rewards for the destruction of venomous snakes.
16. Rewards for the destruction of wild animals.
17. Compensation for land taken up for public purposes.

Charges on account of Regular Contingencies will be budgeted for in the ordinary manner, and the charges as they arise will be incurred by disbursing officers in accordance with fixed scales without sanction of superior authority and irrespective of budget provision.

3. This enables Government to provide for two classes only of fixed grants for contingencies—(1) Special, in which the controlling officer is allowed to sanction up to a certain amount, receiving a contract allowance up to that amount; (2) Contract, in which he sanctions all, receiving similarly a lump grant.

The following table shows the items to be placed under each head :—

Special Contingencies.	Contract Contingencies.
1. Purchase of boats.	1. Purchase of tents.
2. Ditto of elephants.	2. Purchase of books and publications.
3. Repairs to steamers and schooners.	3. Petty construction.
4. Cost of supplying provisions.	4. Country stationery.
5. Other items of large amount and unusual character.	5. Remittance of treasure within district.
	6. Hot and cold-weather charges.
	7. Printing at private presses (without grant).
	8. Tour charges.
	9. Treasury charges.
	10. Repairs to tents.
	11. Purchase and repair of furniture.
	12. Purchase of clothing.
	13. Office and ground rent.
	14. Rewards.
	15. Petty repairs.
	16. Law charges.
	17. Postage and telegram charges.
	18. Office expenses.
	19. Miscellaneous.
	20. Process fees advanced.
	21. Repairs of boats.
	22. Country medicines.
	23. Maintenance of strangers and indigent persons.
	24. Burial of paupers.
	25. Support of pilgrims.
	26. Subsistence allowance to vagrants.
	27. Purchase of accoutrements.
	28. Rewards for marksmanship.
	29. Cost of photographs.
	30. Passage and diet money of insanes on release.
	31. Purchase of raw materials for manufactures in lunatic asylums.
	32. Charges for deportation of vagrants.
	33. All other items of expenditure not specially included in Regular or Special Contingencies.

This classification is similar to that proposed in paragraph 12 of the circular, but a few changes have been made. The headings "Compensation for land taken up for public purposes," "Municipal rates and taxes," "Rewards for the destruction of venomous snakes," and "Rewards for the destruction of wild animals," are classed under Regular Contingencies, as the expenditure on these items cannot be controlled. The headings "Petty construction" and "Purchase of tents" are classed under Contract Contingencies, and a new item, "Printing at private presses," has been included in this class. Subject to the sanction of the Government of India, "Section-writing" and "Purchase of books" will be included under Regular and Contract Contingencies respectively.

4. Under the class of Special Contingencies, a lump allotment will be made to each controlling officer to meet all expenditure for which the previous sanction of Government is not required. From this grant Commissioners of Divisions will have power to sanction expenditure up to Rs. 250, the Inspector-General of Police up to Rs. 1,000, and other controlling officers up to Rs. 100. The grants will be calculated on the basis of the expenditure of the past four years. The procedure in respect of Contract Contingencies will remain unchanged.

5. Commissioners of Divisions will have the disposal of the whole grants for their divisions on account of Special and Contract Contingencies, and will allot the grants annually at their discretion. Savings accruing in the grants will be re-granted at the close of the year, and may be spent on contingencies or on temporary establishments without reference to higher authority. This permission to spend savings on temporary establishments is, however, subject to the sanction of the Government of India. Savings may also be spent by Commissioners of Divisions, or under their authority, on grants to local bodies. As soon as possible after the close of each year, the Accountant-General will report to the controlling officers and to Government the savings effected in the grants.

6. The Accountant-General will be asked to issue specific instructions on all questions of detail. The allotment to be made to each officer will be fixed in communication with the Accountant-General, and will be based on the actuals of past years. When fixed, it will remain unaltered for three years, after which it will be subject to revision.

7. The orders contained in this Resolution will have effect from the beginning of the year 1888-89.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to the Board of Revenue, Commissioners of Divisions, District and Sessions Judges, Inspectors-General of Civil Hospitals, Police, and Registration, Sanitary Commissioner, Director of Public Instruction and Accountant-General.

Ordered also that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to all Departments of this Government, except the Public Works Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

DISCOVERY OF A PROCESS FOR MANUFACTURING PURE SULPHATE OF QUININE AT MUNGPOO.

RESOLUTION.

Dated Calcutta, the 26th March 1888.

APPREHENSIONS of the extermination, in their native forests, of the Quinine-yielding Cinchona trees having reached an acute stage about thirty years ago, the Government of India decided to take effectual steps to introduce their cultivation into India. The collection of seed and seedlings in the wide tract of difficult country over which the best medicinal sorts are naturally scattered was no easy task. But it was successfully accomplished by Messrs. Markham, Pritchett, Spruce and Cross. Contemporaneously with these efforts on the part of the English Government, the Dutch authorities were at work on behalf of their Malayan Colonies, and by the year 1862 Cinchona cultivation had been successfully initiated in India and Malaya. The localities selected for the experiment of Cinchona growing in India were the Nilgiris and British Sikkim. And the excellence of this selection has been proved by the fact that the original nurseries in both localities have developed into large plantations which still remain in the hands of Government. From these two centres, seed and seedlings have been freely distributed to planters, and large tracts of land, especially in Southern India and Ceylon, have been covered with Cinchona trees by private enterprise.

2. The Cinchona trees thus introduced into India are practically of two sorts: (1) Quinine yielders and (2) Mixed alkaloid yielders. Of the Quinine yielders there are two kinds, viz., Yellow or Calisaya (including Ledgeriana), and Crown or officinalis, barks. Of the mixed alkaloid yielders there are also two kinds, viz., red or succirubra, which has been in cultivation from the beginning, and a kind which has come into prominence during the past few years, and which in Annual Reports has been referred to as Hybrid bark. Red bark contains a comparatively small proportion of Quinine with large proportions of Cinchonidine and Cinchonine. It had been chiefly used by druggists in the preparation of decoctions and tinctures, and had not been used by Quinine makers as a source of Quinine. This red-bark tree was, however, the kind which in the early days of the cultivation it was found most easy to propagate; and in all plantations, both public and private, it greatly preponderated over the other sorts.

3. The cultivation of Cinchona trees having been pushed beyond the region of experiment, the next problem that presented itself was the utilization of their bark. For the private grower, the most lucrative course up to the present time has been to sell the crude bark in London. The object of Government was not, however, to secure a financial success, but to provide the people of the country, at the lowest possible rate, with an efficient remedy for the most prevalent of all the diseases of the country. The first step for Government to take was therefore to discover whether it was really a fact that Quinine is the only alkaloid worth extracting separately from Cinchona bark, and whether Cinchonidine and Cinchonine might not each be an efficient febrifuge. It was true that Quinine alone had got into use as a febrifuge, and that it alone of the Cinchona alkaloids had found a place in the British Pharmacopœia. On the other hand, tinctures, decoctions and various pharmaceutical preparations of red bark, into the constitution of which all three alkaloids must undoubtedly enter, had for many years borne the reputation of excellent remedies for fever. The presumption therefore appeared to be that the position claimed for Quinine as the only real febrifuge yielded by Cinchona bark would prove, on careful examination, to be untenable; and that the other two alkaloids would also be found to have value as febrifuges. For the purpose of investigating this point, Commissions of medical officers of all three Presidencies were formed during the years 1866 to 1868. These Commissions were furnished with supplies of the three alkaloids, pure and unmixed, and after very extensive trials, their unanimous verdict was that Cinchonidine and Cinchonine are both excellent febrifuges, the former not much less efficient than Quinine itself.

4. Having thus established the value of Cinchonidine and Cinchonine, the next point to be settled was how best to utilize the large stocks of these alkaloids contained in the bark of the trees growing in the Government plantations. To do this, Messrs. Broughton and Wood, two professional chemists, were engaged in England and were located as Government Quinologists on the Nilgiri and Sikkim plantations respectively. Mr. Broughton (the Nilgiri Quinologist), as the result of his labours, invented a preparation of red bark which he called Amorphous Quinine, and which contained all the alkaloids of red bark in the form of a non-crystalline powder. Of this Amorphous Quinine no large amount was ever manufactured; and its preparation ceased when Mr. Broughton resigned the service of Government. Mr. Wood, who did not arrive at the Sikkim plantation until 1873, concluded, after much observation and experiment, that the best way of utilizing the red bark was to make from it the preparation now so well known as Cinchona Febrifuge. This, like Mr. Broughton's, is in the form of a powder, and contains the three chief alkaloids of red bark mixed in the proportions in which they naturally occur in the bark. Cinchona Febrifuge was then a perfectly new product, unknown to Pharmacy, and it was not clear how it might be accepted by the medical profession.

Mr. Wood therefore adopted for its manufacture on a small tentative scale a simple and inexpensive acid and alkali process, requiring only the rudest apparatus. He intended, should the product be favourably accepted by the medical profession, to replace this simple process by one more efficient, but more complicated, and involving the extensive use of spirit. During the first year of its manufacture (1874-75), only 48 pounds of this new drug were issued. At first, and chiefly owing to a misapprehension as to the proper dose in which it should be given, some prejudice existed against this drug. In 1875-76, however, 1,940 pounds of it were consumed, and its consumption so materially increased during succeeding years that, up to the present date, no less than 87,704 pounds have been issued from the factory. A preparation similar to, and avowedly an imitation of, Cinchona Febrifuge is now made and sold in London under the name of Quinetum, but until Cinchona Febrifuge had first been manufactured in India, no similar preparation existed. It is therefore a remedy for which the world at large is indebted to India. Cinchona Febrifuge has been used in India as a substitute for Quinine. It has been so used by Government in its own medical institutions, and it has been freely offered to the Indian public. Its sale has, however, been restricted to the limits of India. From the beginning, and until now, its price has uniformly been sixteen rupees eight annas per pound, and in this respect it has presented a contrast to Quinine, the price of which has fluctuated considerably, rising at one time as high as 16*s.* 6*d.* per ounce. According, however, to statistics prepared by an English pharmacologist, the average price of Quinine in London from 1875 to 1887 (the period during which Cinchona Febrifuge has been in use) has been 8*s* 4½*d.* per ounce. The sterling value (calculated at this average rate) of 87,704 pounds of quinine would be £587,616, while this quantity of febrifuge has actually been delivered to the Indian consumer for the sum of Rs. 14,17,116. The actual saving to India has therefore been very great, and the capital account of the plantations (about eleven lakhs of rupees) has been covered several times.

5. The preponderance of red-bark trees in the Sikkim plantation, while he was attached to it, naturally induced Mr. Wood to give his attention first to the utilization of their bark. But he by no means neglected the Quinine barks. Of these barks only one,—Calisaya and its variety Ledgeriana,—really thrives in Sikkim, the Crown bark, or Cinchona officinalis, tree having proved a comparative failure. Mr. Wood made many experiments in the manufacture of pure Sulphate of Quinine; but, up to the time of his retirement, for private reasons, from the service of Government in 1879, he had not succeeded in discovering an efficient process. Mr. Wood was of opinion that good Quinine barks could be grown in Sikkim, and that it might be possible to extract the Quinine from them on the plantation. Dr. King, the Superintendent of the Plantation, was very strongly of this opinion, and in 1875 he recommended that all further planting of red-bark trees should cease. This recommendation was not acted upon for some time. Full effect has, however, been given to it of recent years, and succirubra has been supplanted by Calisaya to the extent of about a million trees. The retirement of Mr. Wood did not put an end to the experiments on the manufacture of Quinine. Mr. Gammie, the Resident Manager, took the matter up with energy, and, encouraged and assisted by Dr. King, he carried on a long series of experiments on an acid and alkali process of manufacture by which he succeeded in producing excellent Quinine. He never, however, succeeded in recovering much more than half of the amount contained in the bark upon which he operated. The acid and alkali process had therefore to be abandoned as wasteful and inefficient. A process depending on the maceration of the bark in spirit was next tried; but, after much experiment, it was in turn abandoned. During a visit which he paid to Holland in 1884, Dr. King acquired some hints as to a process of extraction by means of oil. And now, benefiting by the advice of some chemical friends, Mr Gammie has been able to perfect this process, with the result that the whole of the Quinine in yellow bark can be extracted in a form undistinguishable, either chemically or physically, from the best brands of European manufacture. This can be done so cheaply that, as long as the supply of bark is kept up, Quinine need never cost Government much above twenty-five rupees per pound. It is true that, at the present moment, Quinine is obtainable in the open market at rates not very different from this; but that is due to entirely exceptional causes. For some time back the Ceylon planters have been up-rooting their Cinchona trees, both to save them from disease, and to make way for tea planting which appears now to be becoming the principal industry of that Colony; and Cinchona bark has actually been sold in London below the cost of its production in Ceylon. Indeed, so far has the fall in price gone, that South American bark has been practically driven out of the market. This is a state of matters which cannot continue very long, and which is not likely to recur. In the ordinary course, therefore, Quinine might be expected soon to rise to what may be considered its normal price. The object of making public the process now discovered is to check this rise in the price of a drug of such general utility.

6. The cordial thanks of Government are due to Dr. King and his coadjutors—and especially to Mr. Gammie—for the patience, energy and resource displayed by them in their long search for the best method of utilizing these valuable medicinal barks. The Government has no desire to make a profit by the discovery, and the details are now produced in order that private growers of Cinchona may be enabled to take full advantage of the process, and that a permanent reduction in the price of Quinine may ensue.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Method of extraction of the alkaloids from Cinchona Bark by cold oil as used at the Government Cinchona Factory in Sikkim.

In order that the oil may speedily and effectually act on the Cinchona bark, the latter is reduced to a very fine powder by means of Carter's Disintegrator; and to get the powder of a uniform fineness, it is passed through a scalper, which is a machine commonly used for sifting flour. The scalper is in the form of a box enclosing a sloping, six-sided, revolving chamber, covered with silk of 120 threads to the lineal inch. It is driven at the speed of about thirty revolutions to the minute. Any particles of the powder which may be too coarse to pass through the silk meshes drop out at the lower end of the revolving chamber and are again passed through the Disintegrator.

2. A hundred parts of the finely-powdered bark are then set aside to be mixed with 8 parts of commercial caustic soda, 500 parts of water, and 600 parts of mixture composed of one part of fusel oil to four parts kerosine oil. If the caustic soda be of inferior quality, a little slaked lime (about 5 parts) may be used in addition to the eight parts of caustic soda; or caustic soda may be altogether omitted, and 15 parts of slaked lime may be used instead of it. The caustic soda is dissolved in the water and mixed with the bark. Then the oil is added, and the whole is kept thoroughly intermixed in an agitating vessel. Should lime be used, it is mixed in fine powder with the dry bark before adding the water and oil.

3. The agitating vessels in use at Mungpoo are barrels with winged stirrers revolving in them vertically, and with taps on the sides for drawing off the fluids. The first stirring is carried on for four hours, and then the whole is allowed to rest quietly in order that the oil may separate out to the top of the watery fluid. When the oil, which has now taken up the greater part of the alkaloids, has cleared out, it is drawn off by a tap placed just above the junction of the two fluids. The oil is then transferred to another agitator, and is there thoroughly intermixed with acidulated water for five or ten minutes, the mixture being again allowed to rest for the separation of the oil. It will now be found (if sufficient acid has been used and the stirring has been thorough) that the alkaloids have been removed from the oil to the acidulated liquor. The oil is again transferred to the bark mixture, and is kept intermixed with it for two or three hours; the oil is again drawn off in the same way, washed as before in the same acidulated liquor; and this process is repeated a third or a fourth time or until it is found, by testing a small quantity of the oil, that the bark has been thoroughly exhausted of its alkaloids. Each stirring subsequent to the second, need not be continued for more than an hour. The quantity of acid required to take up the alkaloids from the oil will entirely depend on the quality of the bark operated on. If the bark contains 4 per cent. of alkaloids, about 2lbs. of either sulphuric or muriatic acid mixed in twenty gallons of water should be sufficient, and so on in proportion.

4. The after-treatment of the acidulated water containing the alkaloids depends on the product desired, and on the kind of acid that has been used. Should sulphate of quinine be desired and sulphuric acid have been used, the liquor is filtered (if necessary), heated and made neutral by adding a very weak solution of either caustic soda or liquor ammonia. It is then allowed to cool, and as it cools the crystals form out. These crystals are afterwards separated from the mother liquor by draining through a cloth filter. After they have been thus obtained, the crystals are dried. They are next dissolved in about fifty times their weight of boiling water. The resulting liquor is filtered hot through a little animal charcoal. On cooling after filtration the crystals again form out, and they are separated as before from the mother liquor by filtration through a cloth. The crystalline mass obtained by filtration is then placed in small lumps on sheets of white blotting paper stretched on slabs of plaster of Paris. By this means they are practically dried. They are afterwards thoroughly dried by being laid on blotting paper in a room heated to about 10 degrees above the temperature of the open air.

5. If Cinchona febrifuge is wanted, the alkaloids are exhausted from the oil by muriatic acid, the solution being neutralized and filtered in the same way. On an excess of caustic soda solution being added, the alkaloids are precipitated. After standing some hours the whole bulk of liquor and precipitate is passed through cloth filters; and when the alkaline liquor has drained off, the precipitate is washed with a little plain water, dried, and powdered. The powder is Cinchona Febrifuge ready for use.

The 24th March 1888.

CUSTOM HOUSE REGULATIONS.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—CUSTOMS.

Calcutta, the 27th March 1888.

RESOLUTION.

SOME correspondence has lately passed between Government and the Chamber of Commerce regarding the existing Custom House Regulations. The points which, in the opinion of the Committee of the Chamber require attention, are—

(1 The number of holidays.
(2) The charges for overtime working.
(3) The system of passes and the general routine of Custom House business.

The first two points are within the competence of the Local Government to determine. The third, however, can only be usefully discussed in connection with proposals for the amendment of the Imperial Act for the Regulation of Sea Customs (Act VIII of 1878). Before deciding whether any representation should be made to the Government of India on this subject, the Lieutenant-Governor considers it desirable that the question should be thoroughly investigated and reported upon by a Committee. The following Committee is accordingly appointed for this purpose :—

PRESIDENT :

1. Hon'ble Colman Macaulay, C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

MEMBERS :

2. Hon'ble Robert Steel.
3. E. D. Wylie, Esq.
4. J. Scobell Armstrong, Esq., Collector of Customs.

The Committee will be requested to consider the first and second points mentioned above as well as the third. They will also be invited to favour Government with their opinion on certain memorials which have been submitted by members of the Preventive Service.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

L. P. SHIRRES,
Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten
The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 24 vation in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

CALCUTTA, the 27th March 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 23RD MARCH 1888.

THERE is little that calls for notice in the meteorology of the past week. The barometer was low at the commencement of the week, but was beginning to rise rapidly, and the showery, thundery weather of the previous week ceased on the 17th or 18th over the whole province. Thunder-storms occurred on the 17th in Orissa and the eastern and southern districts of East Bengal, and one or two local showers of little importance on the 18th. After that date the weather was fine throughout the week. The barometer rose until the 20th, when it was a tenth of an inch higher than on the 16th. On the 20th temperature commenced to increase rapidly in the interior, and the westerly winds down the Gangetic plain extended further and further eastwards into Bengal. These changes accompanied a rapid decrease of pressure during the remainder of the week, which varied in amount from ·12″ to ·2″. On the 23rd the sea winds at the head of the Bay began to increase in strength, and slightly decreased the temperature and increased the humidity in South Bengal Hot dry weather with clear skies prevailed over nearly the whole of the provice from the 18th to the end of the week.

Pressure.—The barometric changes of the past week formed a single oscillation of the kind that are due mainly to increasing heat and temperature in Northern India. The barometer rose about a tenth of an inch from the 16th to the 20th and fell a sixth of an inch on the average of the whole province between the 20th and 23rd. The mean pressure of the week varied little from the normal, and was slightly in excess in all districts except Central Bengal, and Central and South Behar, where there was a small deficiency (nowhere exceeding ·02″).

Temperature.—The temperature changes of the week corresponded closely to the pressure changes. The mean daily temperature was steady or increased slowly during the first-half of the week, but afterwards increased much more rapidly. The increase was in many cases shown more largely in the night than in the day temperatures. The highest temperatures of the week wer in the great majority of cases recorded on the 23rd. The hottest part of the province during the past week, as defined by maxima temperatures exceeding 101½°, included the stations of Cuttack, Midnapore, Burdwan, Bankoorah and Raniguni. The mean temperature of the week, both night and day, was in excess. The mean daily temperature was on the average 2° in excess in South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur and South Behar; 1½° in Orissa, East and North Bengal, and was normal only in North Behar.

Rainfall.—The only important rainfall of the week occurred as local thunder-showers on the 17th and 18th in Orissa and the east and south-east districts of East Bengal. Orissa received an average of 0·34 inch (·09 inch more than the average rainfall of the week) and East Bengal an average of ·29 inch, almost exactly half the normal mean rainfall of the week.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province the week ending Friday the 23rd of March 1888 :—
